"I never chose music. Music chose me and grabbed me in my early childhood. To say that permanently I fell in love is an understatement. I was born from a couple of missionary parents who belonged to an interdenominational group that called themselves "The Family". They had an international spread and music was present in absolutely every piece of our lives. From daily morning devotions to fund raising and parties. Everything had music in it. We had a classical music teacher in the community and at the age of 5 I started learning the flute. Gladly that didn't fly! lol Picked up the guitar at the age of 6 and never stopped after that. I can appreciate any instrument that is well played but the guitar is now an extension of my body".
